

SIMON ROWLING*Director of Photography*

Simon has packed in a wealth of experience in the first ten years of his career. He started in the specialised world of on-set special effects, and then moved into camera operating, a progression which has given him a broader expertise than many and an understanding of what 'in-camera' really means. He's worked with a wide range of kit to get the required shot, from Steadicam and jibs to octocopters and even the odd horse. His experience now covers features, television drama, and major brand commercials.
