

WILLIAM BLUNDEN

Editor

Coming from a line of editors (Will's father Chris and grandfather Bill were editors too) cutting has been in Will's blood from an early age. He took the time-honoured route of assisting, including on some major features as well as episodic television, and it was on the BBC's 'Hetty Feather' that he made the jump up from assisting to Editor. Now with two series of the Mark Schwahn's 'The Royals' behind him, Will's already made a great start to 2017.

References:

I find William to be a very talented, creative, ambitious individual and very qualified for many aspects of film and TV production. I highly recommend William as an Editor. He conducts himself professionally, has a great eye for the creative editing and is easy to work with and would be a valuable asset for any production.

Clark Mathis – Director – 'The Royals Series 3 & 4'

William has always worked with enthusiasm and an innate understanding of his field. He takes great pride in his work, conducts himself professionally, has a great eye for the creative editing and is easy to work with.

Foz Allen – Producer – 'Hetty Feather'
