CALLUM HARRISON

Producer / Associate Producer

With many years of experience in feature development, alongside producing several short films and now his debut feature, Callum has developed a strong understanding of managing projects from development through to production and post-production, while balancing both above and below the line requirements.

He was recently selected as one of eight Emerging Creatives in Ireland by the Puttnam Scholars, as well as one of 15 rising talents across the UK for BFI Network. Callum is particularly drawn to projects championing underrepresented voices, with a strong passion for queer storytelling. He was born and is based in Northern Ireland and is willing to go wherever his work takes him.
