

ISABEL STEUBLE-JOHNSON

Director

Isabel is a director and producer originally from Philadelphia, PA and now based in London. She has worked in New York, LA, Cape Town, Paris, Berlin and Copenhagen, producing award-winning documentaries and short films, such as Bloomberg's Art + Technology which won a Cannes Dolphin in 2018 and Home Girl, selected by BFI London Calling in 2018. She has worked with multiple global brands, creating unique television and social content for Coca-Cola, Walkers, Tropicana, WorldRemit, FLANNELS, easyJet, Novartis, GSK, UCB, DHL, NHS and Channel 4.

Isabel has now switched gears and is concentrating on directing. She has completed a Sundance COLLAB class and is working with her Sundance Mentor to prepare for application to the Sundance Lab, and has partnered with several writers and production companies to work on projects that are now in development. Her most recent short film Custard Creams was selected for a Genera Grant and has been selected for the Oscar-qualifying BronzeLens festival. She has two additional shorts and a feature in post-production.

She has joint Swiss and US citizenship and has Settled Status in the UK, allowing her to work more or less anywhere in the world.
